

SIZE GUIDE

At Evolv, sizing is simple. To start, all you need to know is your street shoe size in your favorite sneaker. Of course, there are variances to your unique foot shape and desired performance. So, we recommend sizing up ½ to a full size more a more comfort fit or size down ½ to a full size for a more performance fit.

If you need to convert to another unit of measure, just refer to our size charts below. If you feel like you are in between sizes and cannot get to a location to try them on, you can always order a few pairs. RETURNS are easy to execute & free.

VOLUME

All Evolv shoes come in a Medium Volume and Low Volume option for one reason: to get everyone in the best fitting shoe for them. Overall, our LV shoes have 6% less volume than the MV. So, if you know you have a lower volume foot, if your climbing shoes are a bit too spacious, or if you want a more performance fit for your projects, the LV may be your next go-to shoe.

The infographic features a dark background with technical drawings of shoe components. At the top center, the text reads "Volume sizing gets everyone in the best fitting shoe". To the left, a cartoon character with a triangular head and a thumbs-up gesture is shown. A speech bubble next to it says: "Take it from a Volume, volume sizing makes more sense than an 'M' or 'H' on the box!". Below the character are three white rounded rectangular boxes containing the following text:

- Our LV shoes have 6% less volume than MV
- LV is for a customer who has a lower volume foot or wants a snug fit for precise performance
- MV is for a customer who has a more average volume foot or desires more comfort

At the bottom of the infographic, there are three small labels: "SIZING" on the left, "5074" in the center, and "PAGE 7" on the right.
